SURVIVORS

By Julie Chaboud

Julie Chaboud, a young mother, discovers late during her pregnancy that her second child has trisomy and has been fighting since with her husband to protect their little boy from prejudices. She tells here her encounter with 3 persons who have to face different hardship and writes a moving four-voice text presenting each story, their wounds, hopes, struggles and their encounter in an association dedicated to prostitutes. She underlines how hope and joy, brotherhood and love can erase the biggest sorrows and change castaways into survivors.

THE EUCHARIST WHERE EVERYTHING HAS CHANGED

By Michel Salamolard

Nowadays it should be noted that the theory of transubstantiation has become as unfamiliar as what it is supposed to explain. Such little understanding explains that in part Mass is no longer seen as the top priority of a Christian life. The author patiently puts the sacrament into words, to stimulate a reflection and attempt to represent the imperceptible.
